The Louisiana Department of Public Safety and Corrections, Corrections Services (Department) is committed to operating a safe and secure correctional system that provides public safety focused on a system that encourages and promotes offender rehabilitation through participation in programs to help aide their successful reintegration back into the community. All corrections staff are encouraged to review this document carefully and to utilize it to refer offenders to appropriate programs that will aid in their successful return to society.

This Catalog of Rehabilitative Programs is a blueprint of programs available to offenders housed in correctional facilities in Louisiana. The Department provides a wide array of programs that are available at all state correctional institutions and at local jails which partner with the Department to house offenders remanded to the state’s custody. These programs include basic education, vocational and occupational programming, faith-based opportunities, substance abuse programs, mental health treatment and values development. These programs serve to help prepare offenders for their return to their communities and to remain there as productive, taxpaying citizens. It is important that programs not only be available, but utilized to the fullest.

As part of the Department’s Reentry Initiative, we recognize the need for public and community support from all sectors, including faith-based organizations, employers, treatment providers, education, victims, housing, criminal justice agencies, etc. We will continually develop and strengthen existing partnerships and identify new partners through collaborative approaches to offender reentry.

The Department’s reentry initiatives began to be developed in 2001 through the Corrections Organized for Reentry (CORE) initiative. We are constantly building on that foundation to strengthen the probability that offenders returning to Louisiana’s communities will succeed and become productive law-abiding citizens.

Preparation for an offender’s release has historically been fragmented within institutions and between various sections of an agency, but our focus in recent years has been to achieve a more systematic approach to ensure a continuous transition of offender treatment and training from reception through the completion of community supervision (probation and parole). Thus, correctional staff strive to cultivate partnerships with community agencies, the faith-based community, service providers, employment services, victims, local law enforcement, families, and other significant stakeholders to ensure that an offender’s success continues beyond the Department’s oversight and direction.

Offender Reentry

The goal of the Department’s Reentry Initiative is to significantly reduce crime and enhance public safety through reentry programs at all facilities that house state offenders. These reentry programs will provide a seamless plan of services and supervision developed with each offender and will be delivered through state and local collaboration from the time of the offender’s entry to prison through their transition, community reintegration, and aftercare.

According to the latest FBI UCR data for 2017, Louisiana ranked 5th nationally among states in highest violent crime rate. The American Community Survey report on state poverty rates, ranked Louisiana third for highest poverty rate, behind only Mississippi and New Mexico. The Louisiana Department of Education indicates Louisiana’s high school graduation rates is only 81.4%, reflecting 18.6% of Louisiana’s high school students don’t earn their high school diploma, making Louisiana rank only 47th in high school success rates.

Louisiana continues to reduce its prison population through reentry programming and initiatives aimed at keeping people out of prison. Since the implementation of sweeping criminal justice reforms in late 2017, Louisiana has reduced its state prison population by more than 21.5 percent, from 35,961 in October 2017, to 28,207 in June 2020. It has fallen from a peak of 40,583 individuals in May 2012 to 28,207 as of the end of June 2020, a reduction of more than 30 percent. The key elements that contribute to reduced recidivism, (and therefore the key elements of offender reentry strategies), are:

1) Assessment of criminogenic needs using validated instruments
2) Addressing Risk, Need, and Responsivity through structured case planning and programming that addresses:
   a. Basic education and job skills training
   b. Substance abuse treatment
   c. Values development
   d. Developing strong, public-safety conscious discharge plans

In addition to the key elements mentioned previously, there are three phases of the Department’s reentry initiative. Each phase incorporates existing programs directed toward preparing offenders to successfully reintegrate back into the community.
The TPC Three Phase, Seven Decision Point Model

PHASE 1: GETTING READY

The institutional phase describes the details of events and responsibilities occurring during the returning citizen’s imprisonment from admission until the point of eligibility for parole or release. This phase involves the first two major decision points:

1. ASSESSMENT AND CLASSIFICATION:
   - Measuring the returning citizen’s risks, needs, and strengths.

2. PRISON PROGRAMMING:
   - Giving assignments to reduce risk, address need, and build on strengths.

PHASE 2: GOING HOME

The transitional phase begins before the returning citizen’s target release date. In this phase, highly specific re-entry plans are created. This phase involves the next two major decision points:

3. RELEASE PREPARATION:
   - Developing strong, public safety-conscious parole plans.

4. RELEASE DECISION MAKING:
   - Improving parole release guidelines.

PHASE 3: STAYING HOME

The community phase begins the moment the returning citizen is released from prison and continues until he/she is discharged from community supervision. This phase involves the final three major decision points of the transition process:

5. SUPERVISION & SERVICES:
   - Providing flexible and firm supervision and services.

6. REVOCATION DECISION MAKING:
   - Using graduated sanctions to respond to behavior.

7. DISCHARGE & AFTER CARE:
   - Determining community responsibility to “take over” the case.

ReEntry Accountability Plans (REAP): The fundamental process to record and track case management progress on returning citizen transition.
Phase I – Getting Ready Incarceration: Reception & Diagnostic

The institutional phase describes the details of events and responsibilities occurring during the offender’s imprisonment from admission until the point of eligibility for parole or release. This phase involves the first two major decision points:

1. ASSESSMENT AND CLASSIFICATION: All offenders entering the DPS&C will undergo a series of assessments to measure their risks, needs, and strengths. The assessment process includes the use of a validated risk and needs assessment tool, a thorough medical and mental health examination, educational assessment, alcohol and drug screening, social history and criminal history assessment. Inquiries are made into the offender’s work history, involvement with faith-based organizations, and identification needs.

2. CERTIFIED TREATMENT AND REHABILITATIVE PROGRAMMING (CTRP): In 2004, the Department organized and standardized programs and services in state prisons addressing criminogenic needs and to better prepare offenders for a successful reintegration into their communities. In 2010, as some local jails began to offer these programs to offenders, the Department instituted the “Certified Treatment and Rehabilitative Program” certification process to insure the programs implemented in state prisons and local jails were evidence based and standardized. As of 2019, there are over five hundred forty CTRPs being offered in the local jails, of that number fourteen offer Adult Basic Education. Offenders are provided the opportunity to participate in a variety of educational, vocational, faith-based, and therapeutic programming to aid their reentry efforts. Providing standardized, evidence based programming will improve public safety, reduce recidivism, decrease victimization, and reduce the financial burden of the correctional system. To provide an incentive for offenders to take advantage of these programs, a specified amount of “Education credit” is earned by eligible offenders for completing each program up to a maximum of 360 days toward early release.

Program assignments are recommended to reduce risk, address criminogenic needs, and build on strengths. Program participation assists offenders in making positive use of their time while in custody by learning skills through education and job training programs, developing new behaviors, addressing future deficiencies and developing pro-social thinking patterns to create a positive future for themselves and their families. The Reentry Committee at each institution reviews and initiates reentry planning for offenders entering their facility. Offenders are assigned to programs based on their assessed risk level, medical or mental health needs and length of sentence. Institutional Staff prepares an individualized Reentry Accountability Plan (ReAP), which identifies the needs of an offender in the following areas: classification, job assignment, education, vocational, identification, therapeutic programs, medical and mental health, faith-based programming, victim awareness, family support, and stabilization.

Phase II – Going Home Incarceration: Discharge Preparation

The transitional phase begins before the offender’s target release date. In this phase, highly specific re-entry plans are created. This phase involves the next two major decision points:

3. RELEASE PREPARATION: Prior to their release from secure care, offenders are provided with an intensive period of preparation including extensive release preparation programming (Standardized Pre Release Curriculum 2020 – Page 36) and the development of strong, public safety conscious parole plans.

4. RELEASE DECISION MAKING: Providing individualized parole plans informed by validated, objective risk, need, and responsivity tools to parole decision-makers improves parole release decisions and informs individualized supervision conditions.

Phase III - Probation & Parole Staying Home

The community phase begins the moment the offender is released from prison and continues until he/she is discharged from community supervision. This phase involves the final three major decision points of the transition process:

5. SUPERVISION & SERVICES: It is imperative that offenders receive support in their transition into the community and help in remaining productive citizens. This will be accomplished by providing flexible and firm supervision, identifying and referring them to community programs, and developing partnerships with volunteer groups, local law enforcement, faith-based groups and other community and service providers that can assist them in maintaining stability.

6. REVOCATION DECISION MAKING: The Division of Probation & Parole has implemented a Performance Grid that offers structured, graduated responses to violations of supervision conditions. Additionally, the Department offers a range of Alternative to Incarceration Programs for offenders that commit major technical violations.

7. DISCHARGE & AFTERCARE: As the offender nears the completion of his or her sentence, it is important to identify community stakeholders to assume responsibility for helping the offender to achieve case plan goals and continue to make positive, pro-social decisions.
Basic Education

Since approximately 50% of incarcerated offenders do not have a high school diploma or equivalent at intake, it is important to make educational programming available to incarcerated offenders, as well as to offenders released to community supervision or placed on probation. Correctional education programs help offenders break the cycle of criminal behavior by providing the knowledge and skills necessary to succeed. Effective programs focus on helping offenders develop problem solving and decision-making skills. Education for offenders sentenced to the custody of the Department of Public Safety and Corrections will start with an assessment by designated personnel. Academic education for offenders begins with literacy classes for elementary levels and continues through the high school level focusing on the subjects of reading, writing, mathematics, science, and social studies in order to prepare a foundation for the offender's social and life job skills. It is the goal of the Department to work with each offender to improve his/her educational level and subsequently improve his/her chances of becoming a responsible, productive member of the community. The Department provides educational opportunities in the areas of:

- High School Equivalency Test/HiSET or High School Equivalency Preparation (HSE-Prep)
- Adult Basic Education (ABE) and Developmental Studies
- Literacy
- Special Education

ABE/GED/Developmental Studies
GED HiSET or HSE-Prep classes are offered to offenders who have a National Reporting Score (NRS) Level 3 or greater on the Test of Adult Basic Education in all subject areas (TABE 11/12), and have never earned a High School (or Equivalency) Diploma. Offenders receive instruction in the areas of reading, writing, mathematics, science, and social studies. Upon completion, participants are afforded the opportunity to take the necessary exams to earn a High School Equivalency Diploma (HSE).

ABE and Developmental Studies classes are provided in conjunction with the GED and HSE-Prep. These classes are offered to offenders who have earned their High School (or Equivalency) Diploma, but need to improve their reading and math scores in order to enroll in a postsecondary program.

Information on program available on Attachment B State Facilities/Attachment C Local Facilities

Literacy
Literacy classes are offered to offenders who score below an NRS Level on the TABE 11/12. These offenders receive instruction in the areas of basic reading, mathematics, and language. Upon scoring at or above an NRS Level 3 in reading and language, and an NRS Level 2 or greater in Math on all portions of the TABE 11/12, the participant is considered to have completed the Literacy program and is then afforded the opportunity to advance to the HiSET or HSE-Prep program.

Information on program available on Attachment B State Facilities/Attachment C Local Facilities
Special Education
Special education services are offered to offenders under the age of 25 who meet the criteria for any state special education program. These special education services are provided by the State Department of Education – Special School District. An Individual Evaluation Plan (IEP) is required for each special education student. The IEP is completed through a series of tests and evaluations conducted by a team of specialists called the School Building Level Committee (SBLC). A state-certified special education teacher provides all participants with individualized or small group instruction, as required by the State Department of Education. If determined appropriate by the SBLC, special education participants may also be mainstreamed into a regular ABE, GED, HSE-Prep, Developmental Studies, or Literacy program.

Job Skills Training

Job skills training and employment readiness are major components of successful offender reentry. A significant percentage of offenders who enter prison are not employed at the time the crime was committed. The utilization of Career and Technical Education (CTE) programs by offenders will greatly improve their marketable skills.

Highly-skilled offender mentors are utilized to enhance the training development in Career and Technical Education and Industry Based Certifications training programs to assist non-skilled offenders in attaining credentials in their chosen field of training. Certifications through 17 IBC agencies across 42 training/craft areas including the National Center for Construction Education and Research (NCCER), Engine and Equipment Training Counsel (EETC), IC3 Digital Literacy Certification, Automotive Service Excellence (ASE) and many more are offered to offenders as they complete the training program to assist the offender in attaining employment after release.

The Department partners with the New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary (NOBTS) at Louisiana Correctional Institute for Women and Louisiana State Penitentiary at Angola to offer offenders faith-based course work leading to an Associate or Bachelor's Degree in Theology. This program has proven to enhance the social and quality-of-life skills needed for this population.

The Louisiana Department of Public Safety and Corrections has numerous state and local jail facilities participating in a tablet-based program through Ashland University, an accredited 4-year college in Ashland, Ohio and Wiley College, an accredited 4-year college in Marshall, Texas. Offenders are able to enroll in an Associate Degree Program. The pilot concept started in January, 2016, and has since expanded to over a dozen locations statewide.

Through a partnership with the Louisiana Community & Technical College System (LCTCS), offenders housed at state prisons and many local jails/detention centers are able to earn college credit in vocational-technical training fields, including Industry Based Certifications which can also be earned through the DPS&C’s own IBC programs. CTE programs focus on the development of entry-level employment skills for offenders through classroom instruction and hands-on training. Substance Use Disorder

Approximately 69%\(^1\) of the offenders in our correctional system have substance use disorder problems that contribute to their criminality. A 2018 demographic profile of the offender population revealed that 16.3% are in prison with a drug crime as their most serious committed offense. Numerous others were drinking or under the influence of other drugs at the time of their crime.

It is imperative that the Department continue to provide substance use treatment and education for incarcerated offenders and subsequently link them with services in the community upon release. To develop community partnerships that address this critical need, the Department is expanding partnerships with local government and community organizations through parish sheriffs, community volunteers, and private companies to improve substance use education and treatment to offenders.

Clearly, substance use awareness and education are needed as a way of supporting individual wellness and public safety. Any success of lessening an offender’s involvement with alcohol and/or drugs has the potential to translate into that individual’s better judgment and a safer society in the future. However, many offenders have significant substance dependency and require more intense substance use treatment. Additionally, women who abuse substances have unique needs and underlying precipitating factors which must be addressed to achieve significant long term results. The Department has expanded the continuum of substance use education and treatment options to address these diverse needs.

Participation in drug courts is an efficient way for offenders who have substance use disorders to receive treatment. Drug courts are community intervention programs that evolved out of the need to address the common combination of criminal behavior and substance use. They involve supervised treatment, education, work programs, and monitoring. Drug courts are planned, implemented, and supported by the judiciary, prosecutors, defense attorneys, treatment providers, law enforcement officers, and probation and parole officers.

While there are drug courts operating in the majority of the Probation and Parole Districts throughout the state, all do not operate in the same fashion. Some have involvement from state probation and parole officers while others have their own probation officers with little to no involvement or interaction with state probation and parole officers.

The Department continues to develop collaborative relationships between outside treatment and prevention education, between outside treatment service providers and jail-based treatment programs, to assist offenders in developing a recovery base to enhance their safe and successful transition into society.

Mind Altering Substance Abuse Program
Phase 1 - Identifying: This Substance Abuse Group meets at a minimum of once a week for 12 weeks and is comprised of two therapeutic components. The first component is the Madison County Risk Management Model developed by Eric Cohen, Ph.D. which is utilized to increase the awareness of each participant to certain risk factors evident in the life of a substance user. These twenty-seven (27) risk factors are combined in a multi-function workbook that each participant works through during the first component of treatment.
Information on program available on Attachment B State Facilities/Attachment C Local Facilities

Phase 2 – Understanding: Phase 2 meets one (1) time a week for sixteen (16) weeks and is designed to continue the process of understanding of the 27 Risk Factors as were instructed in Phase 1. A workbook developed by Eric Cohen, Ph.D. continues to develop these risk factors so each participant has a thorough knowledge of his own individual risk factors and how he develops his awareness in planning for managing risk factors after release. In addition to the workbook, multiple videos designed to address multiple facets of addiction will be shown and discussed.

Moral Resonation Therapy (MRT)
The MRT is based on cognitive behavioral theory. This program was created for the anti-social (criminal) substance user. The groups are structured to allow trainees to complete the program in either twelve or sixteen sequential steps. The participants are asked to describe their beliefs, attitudes, and behavior to open up for self-criticism as well as criticism of others. They are also asked to examine the quality of their current relationships and to evaluate their life goals. They are challenged to improve their self-concept by working through activities designed to enhance their ego. The participants will be expected to work through nine personality stages described as: disloyalty, opposition, uncertainty, injury, nonexistence, danger, emergency, normal, and grace.

Thinking for a Change
Thinking for a Change 4.0 (T4C) is an integrated cognitive behavioral change program authored by Jack Bush, Ph.D., Barry Glick, Ph.D., and Juliana Taymans, Ph.D., under a cooperative agreement with the National Institute of Corrections (NIC). T4C incorporates research from cognitive restructuring theory, social skills development, and the learning and use of problem solving skills.

The program is designed to be provided to justice-involved adults and youth, males and females. It is intended for groups of eight to twelve and should be delivered only by trained facilitators. Due to its integrated structure, T4C is a closed group, meaning members need to start at the beginning of a cycle, and may not join the group midstream (lesson five is a logical cut-off point for new group members).

T4C 4.0 represents a significant evolution in the curriculum, both in content and use. It is the sincerest hope of NIC and the authors that the changes enable you and your agency to better serve your clients. Correctional agencies can consider Thinking for a Change as one option in a continuum of interventions to address the cognitive, social, and emotional needs of their client populations.

CTRP Non-Approved Treatment Programs:

A New Direction
An easy-to-read corresponding participant workbook and new companion video for each of the seven modules. A New Direction uses cognitive-behavioral therapy (CBT) and other evidence-based practices proven to avert unhealthy thought patterns and maintain long-term success within criminal justice populations.

AA/NA Step Study, Alcoholics Anonymous, NA, Big Book Study
Designed to introduce the Fellowship of Alcoholics Anonymous and/or the Fellowship of Narcotics Anonymous to incarcerated offenders, the program offers a support system for individuals who are trying to recover from alcohol and/or drug addiction, starting in the prison setting and extending to his/her release back into the community. AA/NA groups are designed to study and teach the traditional twelve steps of AA/NA and provide the tools necessary for offenders to plan and develop a program of recovery. Offenders are provided information necessary for many of the lifestyle choices by the individual and better choices made possible in the future by individual involvement.

Beat the Streets
This substance use group is designed to focus on offenders who were addicted to dealing drugs, addressing major relapse issues and strategies in addition to basic life skills of work, money, school, and social life. Videos from the Beat the Street series along with accompanying assignments are used in this group.

Busted
Offenders who test positive for drugs and/or alcohol, refuse to be tested, or have been found guilty of contraband are required to participate in this 90-day substance use-oriented program while in segregation and for an additional six weeks once returned to general population.

Celebrate Recovery Inside
A purpose driven ministry and component of the LSP Rehabilitative and Reentry Workforce Program. This 40-week biblical and balanced program helps people overcome their hurts, habits, and hang-ups. This recovery program emphasizes personal responsibility and produces mentors who manage the therapeutic dorm setting for short-term offenders sentenced from the criminal court of Orleans.

Denial Management
Program designed to teach substance abusers to recognize and manage denial patterns that lead to relapse.

Design for Living
This Hazelden program is designed for educating people who have been convicted of driving while under the influence. It is designated to help teach offenders to take responsibility for their actions and to make real changes in their thinking, beliefs and behaviors. It offers a broad scope of the 12-Step program with emphasis on “addictions” not only to drugs and alcohol, but addictions to food, gambling, sex, fast money, caffeine, and tobacco.

Drug Dealers Anonymous
Program designed to assist offenders identify their option of returning to a lifestyle outside the law versus working as law-abiding citizens. There is a support group component to aid the individual with all decisions and actions needed to alter his/her lifestyle.

Going Home/Staying Home
12-week substance use group utilizing videos, handouts, and discussion to provide substance abuse education.

Inside Out
A CBT program specifically designed for men and women in the criminal justice system. The program focuses on criminal thinking errors that may have led to their incarceration and aims to correct that thinking as a means of improving their ability to make life decisions, cope with environmental stressors, and avoid addictive behavior. The program teaches common sense procedures designed to empower people with the ability to abstain from substances and to develop a lifestyle that supports recovery and the life outside of the correctional facility.

The Matrix Model for Criminal Justice Settings
Provides the structure of an evidence-based treatment experience and combines education on both substance use and criminal thinking and behaviors. Based on the award-winning Matrix Model, this program has been specifically adapted to meet the unique needs of law-involved clients and includes a focus on criminal thinking, re-entry, and adjustment issues. The program covers individual/conjoint therapy, early recovery skills, relapse prevention, family education, social support, medication-assisted treatment, adjustment or re-entry challenges, and urinalysis, with participation in a Twelve Step program encouraged throughout. The manualized format allows participants across your facility to use the same materials--giving you a standardized tool for measuring outcomes.

New Beginnings
Implements evidence-based treatments to offenders who are struggling with addiction, and a co-occurring mental health condition(s). It is aimed at educating participants on how their co-occurring disorder impacts their daily life in the hopes that they will be empowered to treat their own illness and manage their recovery upon release. This program uses an integrated reentry model approach to improve outcomes of co-occurring offenders and to help them successfully reintegrate them back into the community upon release.
Quitting Heroin
Action-focused workbook will help to identify the people, places, and things related to heroin use and recognize healthy alternatives that support your recovery. When participants have completed the exercises and activities in this workbook they will have a specific, personal plan for not only staying clean but for enjoying life.

Recovery Dynamics
Recovery Dynamics is an in-depth study of the disease theory of addiction and 12-step recovery model.

Relapse Prevention
Substance use treatment program geared toward teaching the offender skills to prevent returning to a lifestyle of drug use.

Release & Reintegration (R&R)
A CBT program aimed at training offenders with substance use disorders to challenge their thinking in order to change their criminal and addictive behavior patterns. R&R uses this cognitive-behavioral approach that helps offenders see how their attitudes and assumptions fuel destructive behavior. R&R prepares offenders on what to expect after their release and how they can stay drug-free and crime-free.

Substance Abuse Program – Group Therapy
Designed to cover general educational information regarding substance use and the addictive personality, these small or large group sessions cover the symptoms of addiction, the effects of addiction on the family, and educate the offenders about the 12 steps of AA/NA and help them develop relapse prevention techniques. Using a didactic approach and incorporating the disease model of addiction, offenders are assisted in gaining an understanding of the impact of alcohol and drugs on health, body, and family.

Substance Treatment & Recovery (STR)
Aims to improve re-entry outcomes for justice-involved individuals with opioid use disorders (OUD’s). Treatment is individualized and includes Medication Assisted Therapy (MAT), approximately 1 year to 24 hours prior to their release. In addition to MAT, evidence-based practices are used during their pre-release phase, which includes peer support services, and intensive CBT to address their addiction, life trauma, criminal thinking, and recovery. Once approaching their release dates, these participants are enrolled in available entitlement programs (i.e., Medicaid, etc.) as well as provided an intensive and structured reentry plan that is to ensure their aftercare services.

Helping Women Recover: The revised edition of Dr. Stephanie Covington’s innovative gender-responsive and trauma-informed program integrates theories of women’s psychological development, trauma, and addiction. It contains evidence-based data as well as proven techniques to meet the needs of chemically dependent women. The comprehensive, seventeen-session learning package contains four modules with specific exercises that address the four topics that women identify as triggers for relapse: self, relationships, sexuality, and spirituality. These materials provide the information and tools counselors, mental health professionals, and program administrators need to implement a highly effective program of treatment for women’s recovery groups in varied settings. Additional workbooks and pertinent information will supplement the program to fully address the needs and issues of women in recovery. Through the “Self” module the additional material used will be A Place Called Self: Women, Sobriety and Radical Transformation along with the A Place Called Self: A Companion Workbook both by Stephanie Brown, Ph.D. In the “Relationships” module the additional therapeutic materials will include: Free Yourself from an Abusive Relationship by Andrea K. Lissette, M.A., CDVC and Richard Kraus, Ph.D., But He’ll Change by Joanna V. Hunter and Easy Does It, Mom: Parenting in Recovery by Barbara Joy. Regional Local Reentry Programs

Background Information
Approximately 55% of the 33,200 offenders incarcerated serve out their sentence in a parish jail or local detention center. Unfortunately, these facilities are not equipped to address the criminogenic needs of the offenders. Additionally, almost 1/4 of the admissions to Louisiana prisons each year are offenders that commit technical violations of probation or parole (i.e., not reporting as required, not attending treatment sessions, curfew violation, etc.). The Department is reorganizing and instituting programs to improve the likelihood of successful reentry for offenders serving time on the local level as well as addressing technical violations. The core of this reorganization includes Transition Specialists assigned to local jails housing state offenders, Regional Reentry Programs, and Day Reporting Centers.

TRANSITION SPECIALISTS IN LOCAL JAILS

Approximately 80% of the more than 17,000 state offenders released each year are released from parish jails. To address the growing offender population assigned to parish jails around Louisiana that, in large measure, do not have access to crucial educational and other programming.

In order to insure offenders are discharged with a plan for success the Department has opened several Regional Reentry Programs (refer to Regional Map on 68) around the state for male and female offenders. These regional reentry programs operate in conjunction with local sheriffs and are designed to reach those offenders who are within one year of release (or work release assignment), providing them with the 100 hours of Pre-Release curriculum.

Length of Program and Capacity

- Minimum of 600 participant completions annually per site
- Program duration varies by site from 30 days to 90 days
- Operational since July, 2009

DAY REPORTING CENTERS

Staying on the straight and narrow during supervision can be difficult for some. Many individuals commit technical violations. Technical violators who face revocation and re-incarceration cause major challenges today. They consume valuable resources and pose a threat to public safety. Many of the violation issues stem from deep-rooted attitudinal, motivational, and behavioral issues, as well as substance abuse, educational, and employment problems. The Day Reporting Center program will target some of these high-risk technical violators with a very structured approach for supervision, treatment, and training. Effective Day Reporting Programs can alter the offender’s negative attitudes and behavior through treatment and training, thus lowering recidivism and generating significant savings for taxpayers through lower incarceration costs.

Programming

The program includes random drug and alcohol testing, and requires offenders to be alcohol and drug free in order to progress through the various phases of the program. Depending on the assessment, participants will be provided case management services in areas that include but are not limited to educational, vocational, and/or employment training.

Additional programming includes but is not limited to:
• Substance abuse education and treatment
• Adult Basic Education and HiSET preparation
• Life skills classes
• Cognitive skills training
• Parenting and family relations
• Anger Management
• Employment skills building and career development counseling.

As the participants progress through the Day Reporting Center Programming an aftercare plan is created which addresses critical needs as the participants move into independent living. Aftercare services include pro-social family and community support, relapse prevention activities, pro-social cognitive decision-making, education and employment assistance, and continued alcohol and drug testing.

Location of Programs

The concept behind the Day Reporting Centers is to draw on evidence-based programming and best practices to intervene early with those offenders who are at high risk of reoffending. The program is more effective in metropolitan areas. The first of these centers opened in Orleans parish in February 2009. There are currently 8 centers located in Shreveport, New Orleans, Monroe, Thibodaux, Baton Rouge, Covington, Lafayette, and Harvey

Values Development

Faith Based Initiatives

Most offenders have a values base that is inconsistent with what it takes to adjust in our society. It is imperative that we continue to install faith-based and character based programs to offset these deficits.

Faith-based programs can help an offender prepare for a successful reentry into the community by establishing a spiritual foundation from which he can make sound, moral decisions. Developing partnerships with faith-based institutions that can help ex-offenders maintain their good intentions and positive efforts are crucial to the success of reentry.

Results of a three-year study by the Department indicated that when offenders are involved in an effective prison ministry, the percentage of those rearrested drops dramatically from 41% to 14%.

According to an article in Justice Quarterly (March 1997) entitled “Religious Programs, Institutional Adjustment and Recidivism Among Fellowship Programs,” a study by the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences found that if a person attended ten or more Bible studies during his incarceration, he is 67% less likely to return to prison than those who did not.

Chaplains working with hundreds of volunteers comprise the heart of religious programming, available daily to offenders in all institutions. The following religious programs and organizations are available for offenders:

- Advanced Study Programs
- American Indian Prayer Group
- American Indian Culture Studies
- Apostolic Fellowship
- Asr Salat
- Being Above Society’s Expectations (B.A.S.E) – Faith based Pre-Release Program
- Benevolent Brothers of Allen

Unique in the nation is the New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary’s “Angola and Louisiana Correctional Institute for Women Campus”. The seminary offers two college-level degree programs for the offender population; a two-year associate degree and a four-year bachelor’s degree. As many of these offenders are serving long-term or life sentences, the Department sees their role in the reentry process as mentors – helping other offenders’ transition back into the community. Some offenders who have earned their bachelor’s degree are being transferred to other institutions, where they work under the supervision of the chaplain to strengthen religious programming.

Prison Ministry Task Force

The Department has established a relationship with faith leaders statewide to encourage them to develop and implement faith-based programs to meet the needs of children and families in the community. In December 2003, the Prison Ministry Task Force was formed with individuals from the faith-based community and Department representatives to develop a strong network to aid offenders and ex-offenders to successfully reenter into society. With a vision of “Maintaining Our Identity – Uniting for a Cause” the Task Force sponsored a Prison Ministry Conference in March 2004 to begin developing and expanding this network. Representatives from the Governor’s Office expressed their support to the over 100 faith-based organizations represented at the conference.

Community religious institutions can be a tremendous resource to aid in local problem solving because they have organized resources already in place and the ability to provide moral guidance for offenders to discard prior destructive and/or criminal behavior and provide a sense of responsible living. Communities should begin to turn to their local faith-based institutions and organizations for preventive, early intervention, and rehabilitative services.

Faith and Character Based Dormitory (FCBD)

Faith and character-based dormitory (FCBD) programs have been established at Dixon Correctional Institute, Rayburn Correctional Center, and Elayn Hunt Correctional Center. The programs are the result of a concurrent resolution of the 2004 Louisiana Legislature to pilot this effort by January 2005. The faith and character-based programs are aimed at maximizing the positive influence of three powerful forces:

1. The power of personal faith or a positive belief system
2. The power of positive peer pressure
3. The power of a positive role model through mentoring.

It is believed that these programs will assist with the Department’s efforts to provide persons who are released, or who will be released, from incarceration with fundamental resources in the areas of life skills training, job skill enhancements and placement, as well as access to as many support services as possible in order to appreciably increase the likelihood of the offender’s successful reentry into free society.

The FCBD Programs are offered to facilitate offender institutional adjustment, rehabilitation, reintegration into the community, increased system-wide institutional security, reduction of recidivism, and a full range of religious accommodations. The FCBD Programs do not attempt to convert an offender toward a particular faith or religious preference. Participation by the offender is voluntary and the opportunity to participate is available to all eligible offenders regardless of religious preference. Offenders from all faith groups are welcome in the program. Provision to observe the tenets of one’s faith is afforded to all offenders in the program. Programming will take place primarily under the instruction of qualified and well-trained community volunteers working alongside institutional staff. The FCBD programs will take a program-intensive approach focusing on the following:

1. Mentoring: provide positive role models; encourage growth in personal awareness, maturity, and personal responsibility to self, family, job and community; and, enhance the power to change through personal relationships and accountability.

2. Life-skills and personal growth: provide for skills such as money management, employability skills, parenting, marriage enrichment, anger management, substance abuse issues, conflict resolution, communications, Thinking for a Change, parenting skills, Inside Out Dad, workforce training, etc. necessary for offenders to make a successful reentry into society.
3. Religious and character-based studies: promote development of a value and belief system that will radically influence the offender towards positive behavior both in and outside the prison.

Offenders participating in the FCBD Program will carry out daily job or school assignments and will be allowed to participate in offender organizations and sporting events as schedules permit.

An offender’s successful reentry and sustained success in free society are the primary objectives of the Faith and Character Based Dormitory Programs. The FCBD Program, in cooperation with other reentry programs, is an essential component in preparing the offender for release. While the goals of the program are quite challenging, cooperative involvement of institutional staff and the community can lead ultimately to success. A reduced recidivism rate, a reduction in victim-related crime, and a decrease of the costs of crime to society are achievable. The Department plans to introduce FCBD at all State facilities.

School of Faith Bible Institute

This program is offered to F.B.T.C. members only. This program is accredited by Faith Alliance International. FAI is composed of pastors and spiritual leaders internationally for the express purpose of support and fellowship in the teaching of the Gospel of Faith. FAI supports the mission of CSOF as it endeavors to preserve the heritage of the Gospel of Faith for this generation.

This module is considered a basic building block because CJ involved individuals often experience anger, particularly in response to their loss of freedom. The 4-session brief therapeutic intervention is designed to help clients learn to understand and respond to anger in more appropriate ways. They learn to identify anger triggers, differentiate between healthy and unhealthy anger, to set goals, to plan strategies for interrupting angry patterns, and to utilize progressive muscle relaxation. Sections of this intervention include: Understanding Anger, Managing Anger in Relationships, Mapping Worksheets, The Aggression Cycle, and Links of Interest. (Offered in all Local Parish Jails)
Anger Management
This program is designed to assist offenders in recognizing, addressing, and appropriately handling their anger by providing them with skills necessary for behavior modification and anger management. Offenders learn how to identify causes of anger, body changes caused by anger, trigger signs, different styles of anger, and healthy ways to express anger.
Information on program available on Attachment B State Facilities/Attachment C Local Facilities

Anger Management: Cage Your Rage
Cage Your Rage is one of the most widely used anger control programs in correctional institutions. The program is designed to facilitate discussions about managing volatile emotions. Videos include dramatized scenes to stimulate discussion and demonstrate anger management techniques. Offenders recognize their anger feelings, learn their causes, and deal with them in a responsible way.
Information on program available on Attachment B State Facilities/Attachment C Local Facilities

Beyond Trauma
A Healing Journal for Women (Domestic Violence) – 12 Weeks The newly revised and expanded Beyond Trauma program is a 12 session manualized curriculum that incorporates the insights of neuroscience with the latest understanding of trauma and PTSD. Each session has also been adapted for girls. The evidence-based materials are designed for trauma treatment, although the connection between trauma and addiction in women’s lives is a primary theme throughout. The Beyond Trauma program materials include a facilitator’s guide, a participant’s workbook entitled A Healing Journey, and three DVDs (2 for facilitator training and 1 for clients). The program is based on the principles of relational therapy; it uses cognitive-behavioral techniques (CBT), mindfulness, expressive arts, and body-oriented exercises.

Domestic Violence Intervention Program: (DVIP) Domestic Violence Intervention Program (DVIP) teaches the harm of abusive actions and helps the participant find better ways to handle conflicts at home. They learn about abusive and non-abusive behaviors. They are encouraged to identify feelings, attitudes, and behaviors and participate in group discussions, worksheets, and role play. They will learn how to develop a healthy relationship built upon equality and mutual respect. DVIP is a 24-week program. (Ouachita & Concordia Parishes)

Helping Women Recover The revised edition of Dr. Stephanie Covington’s innovative gender-responsive and trauma-informed program integrates theories of women’s psychological development, trauma, and addiction. It contains evidence-based data as well as proven techniques to meet the needs of chemically dependent women. The comprehensive, seventeen-session learning package contains four modules with specific exercises that address the four topics that women identify as triggers for relapse: self, relationships, sexuality, and spirituality. These materials provide the information and tools counselors, mental health professionals, and program administrators need to implement a highly effective program of treatment for women’s recovery groups in varied settings. Additional workbooks and pertinent information will supplement the program to fully address the needs and issues of women in recovery. Through the “Self” module the additional material used will be A Place Called Self: Women, Sobriety and Radical Transformation along with the A Place Called Self: A Companion Workbook both by Stephanie Brown, Ph.D. In the “Relationships” module the additional therapeutic materials will include: Free Yourself from an Abusive Relationship by Andrea K. Lissette, M.A., CDVC and Richard Kraus, Ph.D., But He’ll Change by Joanna V. Hunter and Easy Does It, Mom: Parenting in Recovery by Barbara Joy. Other supplemental material that will aid in enhancing the LTCW Substance Abuse program will be A Woman’s Way Through the Twelve Steps along with A Woman’s Way Through the Twelve Steps Workbook both by Stephanie S Covington, Ph.D. Several other workbooks will be implemented into the program in reference to mental illness and addiction along with The Twelve Steps and Dual Disorders workbook. Within the portion of the core curriculum addressed Creating Healthy Relationship and Support Systems there will be family counseling sessions in order to develop and strengthen the bonds needed for a productive recovery upon release. Within the Helping Women Recover program, a portion of Living in Balance, the Mind Altering Substances program and the general principles of Moral Resonation Therapy which has been implemented at Forcht-Wade Correctional Center through their Mental Health Department have been implemented to enhance the program and the needs of the participants. Upon completion each participant will also have an individualized relapse prevention/recovery plan that will be developed with the offender's input along with the guidance of the facilitator.

Non-CTRP Approved Therapeutic Programs:

Survivors of Domestic Violence Program
The Survivors of Domestic Violence Program curriculum covers a 12-week program that derives from research that reports best practices in providing psycho-educational programming for women who have experienced Domestic Violence. Rehabilitation and Reentry Court Program
The Louisiana Department of Public Safety and Corrections (DPS&C), Louisiana State Penitentiary and Louisiana Correctional Institute for Women partner with several district courts across the state to provide the Corrections Reentry Court Workforce (Development) Program aimed at aggressively tackling issues that promote and lead to recidivism. The innovative Reentry program addresses various fundamentals that many offenders lack and must receive before their release (i.e. Educational and Vocational programming, moral rehabilitation, basic social and life skills, community and faith-based support systems, etc.). Through this program, participants receive the essential tools vital to their successful transition back into society. This preparation process empowers offenders by providing them with an education, vocational trade, psychosocial treatment, life skills, and moral rehabilitation provided by certified offender mentors supervised by programming staff. This unique approach differs from all others in that short-term offenders are mentored by long-term offenders housed at both Louisiana State Penitentiary (male offenders) and Louisiana Correctional Institute for Women (female offenders), with those mentors having graduated Seminary programs and/or possessing advanced job and life skills.

The Duluth Model or Domestic Abuse Invention Project is a program developed to reduced domestic violence against women. Offenders under no circumstances are permitted to teach this class regardless of their educational level or certification.

Youthful Offender Program

The transfer of juveniles to adult courts is a growing trend. Because of this trend, there are an increasing number of youthful offenders who may be spending important developmental years in adult prisons. Youthful offenders have different needs in many areas as compared to the adult population. Because of these needs, the Youthful Offender Program (YOP) was developed at Dixon Correctional Institute in December 2001. It is a twelve-month program, which targets male offenders aged 17 and under, regardless of length of sentence.

The primary objectives of the program are to provide an environment where youthful offenders can develop self-esteem, self-discipline, positive attitudes, and the cognitive skills necessary to reenter society and be successful. The goal is to provide tailored programs to meet the specific needs of each youthful offender, as well as, create or repair family relationships. The focus is first, to provide an educational program that assists the youthful offender in achieving a HiSET (High School Equivalency Test), while holding them accountable for their actions. Secondly, to be involved in a variety of self-help therapeutic programs, mostly including cognitive behavioral therapy groups, along with work detail. The program will provide positive experiences that will foster a solid foundation and instill spiritual and moral values that will change criminal thinking.

The YOP consists of a four-level system: Levels 1, 2, and 3 will last for a minimum of two months per level and level 4 will last for six months. If a youthful offender remains on Level 1, 2, or 3 for three months, a determination by the Level Board will be made in order to determine if the offender will remain in the program. Each level will be represented by a different color and will allow certain privileges. Youthful offenders will have a daily point sheet in three areas: education, mental health, and security. The youthful offender must maintain a set average to remain on a level or proceed to the next. If an offender is making advanced progress, then the Level Board can vote to move the offender to the next level sooner than scheduled.

Successful completion carries the possibility of such rewards as a geographical transfer to penal institutions (Department of Corrections-related) closer to their home. They can also transfer to a facility offering training in a trade of choice, transfer to a work release facility (if eligible), and a favorable recommendation from the Warden to the Parole Board (if eligible). Successful completion is marked by a formal graduation ceremony, to which graduates are encouraged to invite approved visitors to share their pride and accomplishments in completing the YOP.

Restorative Justice

Restorative Justice is both a philosophy and an approach to justice that balances the interests, rights and needs of victims, offenders and the community which serves to repair the harm caused by crime. Restorative Justice focuses on placing crime victims, communities and offenders in active roles to empower victims in their search for closure; impress upon offenders the real human impact of their behavior by providing opportunities to take direct responsibility to make things right and provide opportunities for offenders to develop competencies needed for successful reentry.

Restorative Justice is a victim-centered approach to justice reminding us that an offender’s crime harmed someone. The offender must accept responsibility for the crime by taking action to mitigate its harm. Assistance to prepare and support the return of the offender to the community is provided through Restorative Justice.

The Department’s Restorative Justice Initiatives include the Crime Victims’ Services Bureau, Victim Awareness Programming for Offenders, and Restorative Justice Education/Information for Staff and Victim-Initiated/Victim-Offender Dialogue along with the Accountability Letter Program for Offenders.

The Department has joined national efforts to define and honor the rights of crime victims as legitimate participants in the criminal justice system. Restorative Justice Values are incorporated in agency operations.

For additional information, please contact Gail Guerin, Crime Victim Services Bureau at 225.342.1056.
Transitional Work Program

The Transitional Work Program, or TWP (also known as “Work Release”), is a program that helps businesses provide products and services to their customers by having a dependable pool of employees ready for work.

Transitional Work Programs provide a transition for soon-to-be released offenders from prison/jail to work in the community, so they can hone skills while earning money that will help them secure housing, transportation, clothing, and other necessities upon release.

State DOC offenders are eligible to enter a transitional work program (TWP) between six (6) months and four (4) years prior to their release date from incarceration, depending on the offense of conviction. Generally, sex offenders are precluded from participation in the transitional work program. Offenders that are approved for the program are required to work at an approved job and when not working they must return to the structured environment of the assigned facility.

There are two types of TWP: contract and non-contract facilities. The differences between the two are simply contract facilities operate under a set contract number of offenders, of which the Department agrees to assign eligible offenders to the facility as vacancies occur. Non-contract TWP also has a set number of offenders that can be housed; however, the sheriff recommends offenders for the program from those housed in the parish facility.

Probation and Parole Officers are assigned monitoring responsibilities for contract TWP’s. This may include conducting random drug screens and random shakedowns of the facility. Additionally, the Probation and Parole Officer is part of the monitoring teams that conduct an annual audit of contract TWP facilities. TWP’s are successful in assisting an offender with making the transition from incarceration back into the work force. The TWP is also utilized as a valuable alternative for technical parole violators, in lieu of returning them to prison.

The benefits of TWP’s are enormous. Placement of an offender in a TWP is much more cost-effective than traditional incarceration. Offenders become taxpayers, not tax consumers and are able to pay victim restitution, child support, court costs, and fines. A long-range reentry objective involves increasing the TWP beds. Offenders have the opportunity to continue employment through their employer upon release.

Community Corrections

Probation and Parole

The Division of Probation and Parole supervises individuals released on parole or sentenced to probation. The Division promotes its mission of public safety by implementing individualized supervision strategies and reentry initiatives. Some of these strategies include referrals to day reporting centers, electronic monitoring, use of alternative sentencing in lieu of revocation, specialty courts and sex offender treatment groups. Additionally, individuals are referred to a variety of community providers to address needs and barriers identified throughout the course of supervision to aid in successful reintegration.

The Division utilizes risk and need assessments, both pre and post release. This allows the individual to have input into their case planning and programming. These risk and need assessments are conducted as required and or needed throughout supervision. The division’s utilization of such tools can provide both judges and field staff with programming options and alternatives to incarceration.

The Division acknowledges the importance of collaborating with the community and local providers for the common goal of public safety and a reduction in recidivism.
Implementation of current legislation has fostered strategies to create a seamless transition for those individuals released from incarceration and for those sentenced to probation. These strategies include but are not limited to statewide reentry coalitions, local reentry coalitions, statewide implementation steering teams, local implementation steering teams, the statewide reentry advisory council, and additional work groups that address the varying needs and barriers to reentry efforts.
